

NO HANDHOLD!

When you Huey knucklebusters haul down on the tail boom to insert the ground-handling wheels, keep your mitts off the tail light, please.

The light looks like a natural handhold—but the frame can't take it. So, your support buddies end up with some extra sheet metal work beefing up the broken frame.

Just bear down on the tail boom, OK?

